

August 19

It is easy to get swept away by the vision of God's dream for the world. Unlike the brokenness of the present, it is whole. Unlike the violence of the present, there is peace. Unlike, well, what is actual, something more is possible. The Holy Spirit is God's continuous gift to the present that protests what is with what could be. She is the always-active agent of God's coming. Life in the Spirit then, is one that dreams God's dream during the day.

by Tripp Fuller, posted in Patheos.com, responding to the prompt: "How is the Holy Spirit at work in the world today? ...in 100 words or less." Posted May 14, 2010.

<https://www.patheos.com/resources/additional-resources/2010/05/how-the-holy-spirit-moves-today> at the time of publication, Tripp Fuller: a Baptist minister serving Neighborhood Church and Ph.D. student at Claremont School of Theology